Dear Harold:

Thank you for your recent letter, which I greatly appreciated. Indeed I did receive your story, "The Green Man," and read it with keen interest. It is an exceptionally fine piece of writing, and I marvel at the extent and variety of your imagination. You managed also to include some most stimulating insight into human nature. I thought it was a perfectly wonderful piece of work, and I read it with great pride in you, my good friend. I was aware of the fact that in order to write that piece you certainly had to do a vast amount of research. The extent of your knowledge appalls me.

I am glad to note that you expect to be in New York in the near future. Please let me know the time of your coming, for I shall look forward to a good visit. I shall let you know if I am to be in Chicago.

With kindest regards, I am, as ever,

Cordially yours,

A large, flowing handwritten signature in cursive script, which appears to read "Norman".
